A forward contract involves:

A. A commitment today to purchase a product on a specific future date at a price determined today.

B. A commitment today to purchase a product some time during the current day at its present price.

C. A commitment today to purchase a product on a specific future date at a price to be determined some time in the future.

D. A commitment today to purchase a product only when its price increases above its current exercise price.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A forward contract is an executory contract in which the parties involved agree to the terms of a purchase and a sale, but performance is deferred. Accordingly, a forward contract involves a commitment today to purchase a product on a specific future date at a price determined today.
