NEW QUESTION: 1

As a primary security engineer for a large corporate network you have been asked to author a new security policy for the wireless network while most clients devices support 802.11X authentication some legacy devices still passphrase.

When writing the 802.11 security policy, what password related items should be addressed?

A. Password complexity should be maximized so that the weak IV attacks are prevented.

B. Password should include a combination of upper and lower case letter, numbers, and special characters.

C. Password creation process should be defined to maximize the strength of PSK based authentication.

D. Certificate should always be recommended instead of passwords for 802.11 client authentication.

E. MSCHAPv2 passwords used with EAP/PEAPv0 should be stronger than typical WPA2=PSK passphrase.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Functional policies should include a password policy. This policy should state the length, complexity, and age limits of passwords used in authentication, in addition to simply requiring a password.

A base password complexity and length that is commonly used is a password of at least eight characters in length, at least one uppercase letter, at least one lowercase letter, at least one number, and at least one special character.

pre-shared keys (PSKs) A method of distributing encryption passphrases or keys by manually typing the matching passphrases or keys on both the access point and all client stations that will need to be able to associate to the wireless network. This information is shared ahead of time (pre-shared) by using a manual distribution method such as telephone, email, or face-to-face conversation. (passphrase is used in PSK so D is correct choice)

NEW QUESTION: 4

When an administrator initiates a device wipe command from the ISE, what is the immediate effect?

- A. It requests the administrator to choose between erasing all device data or only managed corporate data.
- B. It requests the administrator to enter the device PIN or password before proceeding with the operation.
- C. It immediately erases all data on the device.
- D. It notifies the device user and proceeds with the erase operation.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Cisco ISE allows you to wipe or turn on pin lock for a device that is lost. From the MDM Access drop-down list, choose any one of the following options:

+ Full Wipe -- Depending on the MDM vendor, this option either removes the corporate apps or resets the device to the factory settings.

+ Corporate Wipe -- Removes applications that you have configured in the MDM server policies + PIN Lock -- Locks the device
