NEW QUESTION: 1

A corporation was a party to the following transactions during November and December of the current year. Which of these transactions is most likely to be defined as a derivative?

A. Purchased a term life insurance policy on the entity's chief executive officer to protect the entity from the effects of an untimely demise of this officer.

B. Agreed to cosign the note of its 100%-owned subsidiary to protect the lender from the possibility that the subsidiary might default on the loan.

C. Purchased 1,000 shares of ordinary stock of a public corporation based on the assumption that the stock will increase in value.

D. Based on its forecasted need to purchase 300,000 bushels of wheat in 3 months, entered into a 3-month forward contract to purchase 300,000 bushels of wheat to protect itself from changes in wheat prices during the period.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A derivative is a financial instrument commonly used in hedging activities. Its value changes with the change in the underlying (a specified interest rate, security price, foreign currency exchange rate, price index, commodity price, etc.). It requires little or no initial net investment compared with contracts having similar responses to changing market conditions, and it is settled in the future. The purchase of the forward contract as a hedge of a forecasted need to purchase wheat meets the criteria above. The forward contracts value will change with changes in the underlying (the commodity price), requires little or no initial net investment (the purchase is in three months), and settlement is in the future.

Explanation

Box 1: The Speech SDK
The Speech SDK is not limited to 15 seconds.

Box 2: Batch Transcription API
Batch transcription is a set of REST API operations that enables you to transcribe a large amount of audio in storage. You can point to audio files with a shared access signature (SAS) URI and asynchronously receive transcription results. With the new v3.0 API, you have the choice of transcribing one or more audio files, or process a whole storage container. Asynchronous speech-to-text transcription is just one of the features.
