DRAG DROP

You work as a Software Developer for UcTech Inc. You create a session object and want that it be destroyed if it is not called for 20 minutes.

Drag and drop the appropriate statements that you will use to accomplish the task.

Select and Place:

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Session timeout is an event that occurs when a session is invalidated if a user does not use the session for a specified period of time. Session timeout can be set in the following two ways:

1. Setting timeout in deployment descriptor: This can be done by specifying timeout between the `<session-timeout>` tags as follows:

<session-config>

<session-timeout> 10 </session-timeout>
```

```
</session-config>

This will set the time for session timeout to ten minutes.

2. Setting timeout programmatically: This will set the timeout for a specific session. The syntax for setting the timeout programmatically is as follows:

session.setMaxInactiveInterval(10*60)

In this method, the timeout is specified in seconds. Hence, this will set the time for session timeout to ten minutes.
