NEW QUESTION: 1

Identify the two true statements about alias tables.

- A. Alias tables are set up to create a copy of the data with a filter applied to it.
- B. Alias tables are set up to include best practice naming conventions for physical table names.
- C. Alias tables are set up to create another physical copy of the data.
- D. Alias tables are set up to avoid triangular or circular joins.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Explanation

It is a best practice to create aliases for all tables. Aliases are created in the Physical Layer of the repository.

Some of the benefits of using aliases are given below:

(A) * An alias is used to avoid circular joins and to configure self joins.

* You can create a join relationship which is different than the actual foreign key relationship in the database. This helps in defining relationships to meet business model criteria.

* Aliases can function in numerous ways to define business model e.g. a table can act both as a dimension and a fact using aliases.

(B) * You can rename aliases to make physical and business model easier to understand.
