Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3

A sound justification for an entity's repurchase of its own shares (e.g. treasury shares) is to:

- A. Lower the debt to equity ratio of the entity.
- B. Increase the entity's total assets.
- C. Meet the share availability needs of a potential merger.
- D. Reduce the idle cash and increase marketable securities.

Answer: C

Explanation:

An entity has many reasons to repurchase its own shares. These include meeting the needs created by potential mergers or pension and profit-sharing plans. Also, management may want to buy out a dissident shareholder. Sometimes, an entity has excess cash and can find no better investment than its own shares. Moreover, management may believe the shares are selling for a low price for no apparent reason. Thus, a purchase may not only be a good investment but may also support the market price of the shares.
