C. The command mpls traffic-eng multicast-intact is configured

Answer: D
Explanation:
The following is sample output from the show ip rpf command in a Multi-Topology Routing (MTR) routing environment. In Cisco IOS releases that support MTR, the "RPF topology" field was introduced to indicate which RIB topology is being used for the RPF lookup. For the "RPF topology" field in this example, the first topology listed (ipv4 multicast base) indicates where the nexthop of the RPF lookup is being conducted and the second topology listed (ipv4 unicast data) indicates where the route originated from. Router# show ip rpf 10.30.30.32 RPF

The table below describes the fields shown in the displays.
Table 15 show ip rpf Field Descriptions
Field Description
RPF information for Hostname and source address for which RPF information is displayed. RPF interface For the given source, the interface from which the router expects to receive packets.

router expects to receive packets. RPF route/mask Route number and mask that matched against this source. RPF type Routing table from which this route was obtained, either unicast, MBGP, DVMRP, or static
mroutes.
RPF recursion count
The number of times the route is recursively resolved.
Doing distance-preferred
Whether RPF was determined based on distance or length of mask.
Using Group Based VRF Select, RPF VRF.
The RPF lookup was based on the group address and the VRF where the RPF lookup is being performed.

The preference value used for selecting the unicast routing metric to the RP announced by the designated forwarder (DF).
