Deadlettering - From time to time a message may arrive in your queue that just can't be processed. Each time the message is retrieved for processing the consumer throws an exception and cannot process the message.

These are often referred to as poisonous messages and can happen for a variety of reasons, such as a corrupted payload, a message containing an unknown payload inadvertently delivered to a wrong queue, etc. When this happens, you do not want your system to come to grinding to a halt simply because one of the messages can't be processed.

Ideally the message will be set aside to be reviewed later and processing can continue on to other messages in the queue. This process is called 'Deadlettering' a message and the Service Bus Brokered Messaging supports dead lettering by default. If a message fails to be processed and appears back on the queue ten times it will be placed into a dead letter queue. You can control the number of failures it takes for a message to be dead lettered by setting the MaxDeliveryCount property on the queue. When a message is deadlettered it is actually placed on a sub queue which can be accessed just like any other Service Bus queue. In the example used above the dead letter queue path would be samplequeue/$DeadLetterQueue. By default a message will be moved to the dead letter queue if it fails delivery more than 10 times.

Automatic dead lettering does not occur in the ReceiveAndDelete mode as the message has already been removed from the queue.

Which two conditions are required by the ASM fast mirror resynchronization to track block changes for a set period of time before dropping the disk from the disk group?

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Explanation:

ASM Fast Mirror Resync

Enabled when COMPATIBLE.RDBMS >= 11.1

Whenever ASM is unable to write an extent, ASM takes the associated disk offline. If the corresponding disk group uses ASM mirroring (NORMAL or HIGH redundancy), at least one mirror copy of the same extent exists on another disk in the disk group.

Before Oracle Database 11g, ASM assumed that an offline disk contains only stale data and no longer reads from such disks. Shortly after a disk is put offline, ASM drops it from the disk group by re-creating the extents allocated to the disk on the remaining disks in the disk group using mirrored extent copies. This process is quite resource intensive and can take hours to complete. If the disk is replaced or the failure is repaired, the disk must be added again and another rebalance operation must take place.
