- B. Only changes that introduce new services
- C. Any change that the organization believes could benefit
- D. It is mandatory that all changes are subject to design coordination activity

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 3

- A. Option B
- B. Option D
- C. Option C
- D. Option A

Answer: B

Explanation:

Reference:

- Answer A: does not provide versioning- Answer B: does not provide versioning- Answer C: Beanstalk provide version control over your application (not infrastructure) Extract from what is AWS CloudFormation: ( <http://docs.aws.amazon.com/AWSCloudFormation/latest/UserGuide/Welcome.html>) Easily Control and Track Changes to Your Infrastructure In some cases, you might have underlying resources that you want to upgrade incrementally. For example, you might change to a higher performing instance type in your Auto Scaling launch configuration so that you can reduce the maximum number of instances in your Auto Scaling group. If problems occur after you complete the update, you might need to roll back your infrastructure to the original settings. To do this manually, you not only have to remember which resources were changed, you also have to know what the original settings were.

When you provision your infrastructure with AWS CloudFormation, the AWS CloudFormation template describes exactly what resources are provisioned and their settings. Because these templates are text files, you simply track differences in your templates to track changes to your infrastructure, similar to the way developers control revisions to source code. For example, you can use a version control system with your templates so that you know exactly what changes were made, who made them, and when. If at any point you need to reverse changes to your infrastructure, you can use a previous version of your template.

NEW QUESTION: 4

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a server named Server1. Server1 runs Windows Server 2012 R2.

You need to create a 3-TB virtual hard disk (VHDX) on Server1. Which tool should you use?

- A. New-VirtualDisk
- B. Diskpart
- C. Share and Storage Management
- D. Server Manager

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

You can create a VHD from either the Disk Management snap-in or the command line (diskpart).

From the DiskPart command-line tool at an elevated command prompt, run the create vdisk command and specify the file (to name the file) and maximum (to set the maximum size in megabytes) parameters.

Incorrect Answers:

B: Server Manager can be used to create virtual disks, not virtual hard disks.

C: Share and storage management is used in Windows Server 2008 R2. It is not supported in Windows Server 2012.

D: New-VirtualDisk requires an existing storage pool.
