NEW QUESTION: 1

What is the most highly reliable Smart Array Configuration?

- A. Raid 60
- B. Raid 6 ADG
- C. Raid 50
- D. Raid 1 ADM

Answer: A

Explanation:

RAID 60 RAID 60 is a nested RAID method in which the constituent hard drives are organized into several identical RAID 6 logical drive sets (parity groups). The smallest possible RAID 60 configuration has eight drives organized into two parity groups of four drives each.

For any given number of hard drives, data loss is least likely to occur when the drives are arranged into the configuration that has the largest possible number of parity groups. For example, five parity groups of four drives are more secure than four parity groups of five drives. However, less data can be stored on the array with the larger number of parity groups.

RAID 60 is particularly useful for data archives and high-availability solutions.

Advantages:

- Higher performance than for RAID 6, especially during writes.
- Better fault tolerance than either RAID 0 or RAID 6.
- Up to $2n$ physical drives can fail (where n is the number of parity groups) without loss of data, as long as no more than two failed drives are in the same parity group. Disadvantages: - All data is lost if a third drive in a parity group fails before one of the other failed drives in the parity group has finished rebuilding. - A greater percentage of array capacity is used to store redundant or parity data than with non-nested RAID methods.

E: You can perform all ALTER PLUGGABLE DATABASE tasks by connecting to a PDB and running the corresponding ALTER DATABASE statement. This functionality is provided to maintain backward compatibility for applications that have been migrated to a CDB environment.

AG: When you issue an ALTER PLUGGABLE DATABASE OPEN statement, READ WRITE is the default unless a PDB being opened belongs to a CDB that is used as a physical standby database, in which case READ ONLY is the default.

You can specify which PDBs to modify in the following ways:

List one or more PDBs.

Specify ALL to modify all of the PDBs.

Specify ALL EXCEPT to modify all of the PDBs, except for the PDBs listed.

The VMs are unable to connect to the domain controller. You have the following requirements:
