NEW QUESTION: 1
Select all that applies for resizing an EMR cluster.
Choose the 3 correct answers:
A. Only task nodes can be resized up or down
B. Core nodes can only be added
C. Master and task nodes can be resized up or down
D. Only one master is allowed
Answer: A,B,D Explanation:
The master node manages the cluster and typically runs master components of distributed applications. For example, the master node runs the YARN ResourceManager service to manage resources for applications, as well as the HDFS NameNode service. It also tracks the status of jobs submitted to the cluster and monitors the health of the instance groups. To monitor the progress of a cluster, you can SSH into the master node as the Hadoop user and either look at the Hadoop log files directly or access the user interface that Hadoop or Spark publishes to a web server running on the master node.
