NEW QUESTION: 2

You create a new ADF Faces page called emp.jspx and bind some data controls to that page. You notice a file called empPageDef.xml. What is this file for? (Choose the best answer.)

- A. It is the file that contains the definition of the bindings to your data-bound components.
- B. It is a template file into which you can write any managed bean code.
- C. It is the page template definition file that represents the chosen quick start layout.
- D. It defines the binding context for all pages in your application.
- E. It is the page definition that contains the XML representation of the page layout and the components on that page.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

The pageNamePageDef.xml files are created each time you insert a databound component into a web page using the Data Controls Palette or Structure window. These XML files define the Oracle ADF binding container for each web page in the application. The binding container provides access to the bindings within the page. You will have one XML file for each databound web page.

NEW QUESTION: 3

Which deployment option of Cisco NGFW provides scalability?

- A. high availability
- B. inline tap
- C. clustering
- D. tap

Answer: C

Explanation:

<https://www.cisco.com/c/en/us/td/docs/security/firepower/fxos/c>

ustering/asa-cluster-solution.html Clustering lets you group multiple Firepower Threat Defense (FTD) units together as a single logical device. Clustering is only supported for the FTD device on the Firepower 9300 and the Firepower 4100 series. A cluster provides all the convenience of a single device (management, integration into a network) while achieving the increased throughput and redundancy of multiple devices.
