NEW QUESTION: 1

When implementing secure PCI wireless networks, which two are specific recommendations in the PCI DSS?

(Choose two)

- A. Use VLAN based segmentation with MAC filters.
- B. Implement strong wireless authentication

- C. Change default settings.
- D. Segment logging events with other networking devices within the organization.
- E. Use a minimum 12-character random passphrase with WPA

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Explanation

Wireless networks that are part of the CDE must comply with all PCI DSS requirements.

This includes using a firewall (requirement 1.2.3) and making sure that additional rogue wireless devices have not been added to the CDE (requirement 11.1).

In addition, PCI DSS compliance for systems that include WLANs as a part of the CDE requires extra attention to WLAN specific technologies and processes such as: A. Physical security of wireless devices, B. Changing default passwords and settings on wireless devices, C. Logging of wireless access and intrusion prevention, D. Strong wireless authentication and encryption, E. Use of strong cryptography and security protocols, and F. Development and enforcement of wireless usage policies. This section will cover each of these requirements
