NEW QUESTION: 1
You have two sales representatives in your company that currently have the same role. That role does not allow them to convert leads, but it does provide access to lead records. You want to grant one of them the ability to convert leads, but keep the other with the default settings. What is the best way to accomplish this?
A. Copy the existing role and edit the copied role to allow Read/Edit access to lead records,
B. Copy the existing role and edit the copied role to hide the Leads tab.
C. Edit the underlying role to include the privilege.
D. Copy the existing role and edit the copied role to include the Convert Leads privilege.
Answer: D
Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
We need two roles one for each sales representative.
Add the Convert Leads privilege to the appropriate role.
Note:
The role settings that allow you to convert leads are as follows:
* The role must have the CRM Marketing: Convert Leads privilege.
* Additional record-type access for the role might also be required.

NEW QUESTION: 3
A business continuity plan is an example of which of the following?
A. Compensating control
B. Detective control
C. Preventive control
D. Corrective control
Answer: D
Explanation:
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
A corrective control, such as business continuity plan (BCP), consists of instructions, procedures, or guidelines used to reverse the effects of an unwanted activity, such as attacks or errors. In particular a BCP is the assessment of a variety of risks to organizational processes and the creation of policies, plans, and procedures to minimize the impact those risks might have on the organization if they were to occur.

Incorrect Answers:
B: A business continuity plan is A detective control. A detective control is an access control deployed to discover unwanted or unauthorized activity. Examples of detective access controls include security guards, supervising users, incident investigations, and intrusion detection systems (IDSs).
C: A preventive control is any security mechanism, tool, or practice that can deter and mitigate undesirable actions or events. A business continuity plan is A preventive control.
D: A compensating control is a data security measure that is designed to satisfy the requirement for some other security measure that is deemed too difficult or impractical to implement. A business continuity plan is A compensating control.
