NEW QUESTION: 1

A vertically integrated organization is best described as one that:

- A. Is departmentalized by product or service.
- B. Fosters very narrow span of control.
- C. Owns all of its production facilities.
- D. Manufactures the component parts used in its product.

Answer: D

Explanation:

An organization is vertically integrated if it unites sources of supply, the production of finished goods, and the marketing of the product. In other words, complete vertical integration combines all phases of the production and delivery of products or services.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Which one of the following is a passive network attack?

- A. Spoofing
- B. Traffic Analysis
- C. Masquerading
- D. Playback

Answer: B

Explanation:

"Traffic analysis and trend analysis are forms of monitoring that examine the flow of packets rather than the actual content of packets. Traffic and trend analysis can be used to infer a large amount of information, such as primary communication routes, sources of encrypted traffic, location of primary servers, primary and backup communication pathways, amount of traffic supported by the network, typical direction of traffic flow, frequency of communications, and much more."
